

STUDY PARTICIPATION OPPORTUNITY

Have you experienced elbow pain over the course of your athletic career?

Consider joining a Mayo Clinic research study in which you will undergo screening for common problems affecting the elbows of young throwing athletes as part of a one-time event on August 1-2, 2026 by a team of providers and researchers through Mayo Clinic Orthopedic Surgery & Pediatric Sports Medicine.

Screening will include a short survey, a physical exam of your throwing elbow, and ultrasound exam of your elbow.

Study participation should take no more than 20 minutes of your time and is free to you!

Questions? Contact your organizational lead and they will connect you to a member of our study team!
